Established in September 2010, based in Buntingford, Hertfordshire – a family run business – brothers – Jamie and Adam Brown.

Supplying a full range of materials and products at the most competitive prices possible to become a complete one stop shop for all building and plumbing requirements.

Adam Brown, Director of Operations says

The simplicity and user-friendly nature of Sharp-aX has been imperative to our hiring and staff on-boarding process, meaning colleagues can begin to take orders and use helpful system features within minutes, becoming an instant asset to our company.

On the other hand, the complex core and customisations you can add, both on a company-wide or user-by-user basis, means everyone can see the data they need for their role at their fingertips in seconds.

With simple yet effective features such as highlight rules to the more in-depth live data dashboards, Sharp-aX is able to assist all aspects of a business to enable growth throughout.

The amazing developers can take any system or website challenge on and we love working with the team to develop new features and ideas to continue to differentiate us from the competition.

The Sharp-aX software

Adam and Jamie have embraced the Sharp-aX software using every feature and module for strict stock control, margin watching and streamlining their order processing.

They have no hesitation in recommending the Sharp-aX software for its power, flexibility and customisation and personal customer service.
